

Dear Sirs:

I ask to reconsider and not allow Broadband Over Power Line. This technology has no place in the domestic market. There are plenty of competition for high-speed internet service and with this current state of the economy, the price of internet service should begin to drop. The more important aspect of this decision is to allow the limited electromagnetic spectrum to be flooded with unnecessary emissions. Please reconsider this flawed application of technology.

Thank you.
Adam Vazquez